ELVIS RICHARDSON National Housing Search <$250,000

On my recent housing searches using a realestate app on my iPad, I found myself really enjoying looking at the images not so much as architectural shells where I could imagine my potential home but more as photographs like documentary evidence of chance encounters with identity and place. I recognised in the images so many photographic genres and conventions; the wide angled forensic compositions, the mood lighting, interiors, still life, documents of personal presentation and social transition, empty spaces or spaces furnished in dated colour and textures, and so on. I began collecting them by taking a screen shot of my ipad and quickly the collection grew.
